TARTRO-CITRIC LEMONADE,

A N EFFERVESCING PURGAtive, agreeable to the taste and efficient as a remedy superior in many respects to anything of the kind hitherto employed.

As a substitute for "Citrate of Magnesia," it possesses the advantage of being a little more active in the same dose, and by the stability of its combination is not hable to decompose when kept for a time; moreover, it is much less expensive.

Like Citrate Magnesia, it is charged with carbonic acid gas, and to the palate is as agreeable as lemonade.

We have, in the organ, what is called th Buohanan record. The chief part of it is the old resolut one of 1819, passed at a meeting in Pennsylvania. To these resolutions the names of three persons are affixed, and that of James Buchanas authority, that Mr. Buchanan ever saw the reso lutions; but it is quite unimportant. These reso lutions were prepared and passed thirty-seven years ago. They are rather old to bring up, at this day, against a man of a long subsequent record, that no ingenuity can tarnish. James Buchavan has proved his soundness in many a struggle in Confound an extract containing Buchanan's opinion this c.ty: about slavery in 1826. He considered it an evil, political and moral.

tion to be admitted into the Union, the latte he both advocated and voted for hor admission This was done against the opposition of the anti tation. This Buchauan did in the case of Arkansas; but he said, moreover :

That on the shiper of slavery this constitution was are liberal than the constitution of any of the slave-solding states that had been admitted into the Union. It preserved the very words of the oher count union nreasant to slavery. But there were other provisions not in favor of the slaves, and among them, a provision which secured to them the right of tria by Jurvalus put that them in that particular on an equal footing rith the whites.

He considered the compromise which had been made, them Missayari was admitted into the Union, salaving charge, indeed, that an advocate should present to men whose votes he wanted, the most palatable aspect of his case.

Here, then, is the whole story, after long labo and palaful research. Such frivoleus stuff is to offset a life of strict observance of the constitution, in regard to the rights of the Southern States. whenever assailed. It is repeated that Buchanan front of the Southern States, set down as part of

We have published his Congressional record, and every emergency, the uncompremising opponent In the mean time, the maker of this record agains' Buchanan has a record that we re-publish the morning again. Let the reader remember, that the sama man who published the record of Buchanan is the author of that black column. Every word is from his own pon.

Let him, after reading the meagre record he Abolition side. We have published his votes from more's anti-slavery propensities, and his antielavery political action, nobody denies; Mr. Buchanan's fidelity to 'he constitution and the rights assailed, though in a eneaking way, upon the subway. We stated a fact known through the columns of the Journal itself. Stickney did boast, according to True, of kis influence with the press; and mentioned the editor of the Journal. This might have amounted to little, but the editor of the Journal explains himself that he did speak to the bank note reporter, and ask him to examine into the value of the stock. As to the threat of the editor as to what he would do with an editor s either make, nor withdraw a charge we had made for such bravado. In the mean time, we shall publish what may be of interest here, about this swindling State Company's transactions, regardless of recolves, in big letters, as to editors of respectable standing. When, however, we intend to make a criminal charge, we shall not leave it a single electoral vote. These to be taken to-ody, we believe, has yet ventured the opinion in Buchanan can carry a New England State. Itselfee the Republicaus and Americane come to college, and close ranks against the common y, it is by no means certain that the Democracy of win easy victories in States that, have not even counted among the FOSSIBLES by the friends of Mr mann.

Great apprehensions are felt by many that Fremont will carry our neighboring State of Indiana. We shall not believe it till we see it, an so far all signs are against it. The people of Indiana know that the is us is union or disunion and that she and Kentucky are border States. Thousands in Indiana are natives of Kentucky and the people of both States are familiar acquaintanees. The two States are indeed old per borders shall be wet with fraternal blood. The madness of the crusade against the South, got up by the supporters of Fremont, can't win favor with the majority of Indiana. It is very convenient for howlers from down East to come shrieking their sectional disunion projects. They are not on the borders of frea and slave States. When disunion and civil war rages, they can sit at home and write homilies against slavery, and preach seditious sermons on Sunday, and leave Indiana and Kentucky to engage in the strife.

The white people of Indiana don't want a league with the colored race of Kentneky. Fanatics

We have ever looked toward to unuary when neutrocky should contain within her bounds no bondmen, and we hope to live to see the light of such a day.

Many of the best minds of the State are engaged with the subject of emancipation, and they will express freely their opinions and actively upon them.

We must make up our minds to meet thet question, at home and write homilies against slavery, and with the colored race of Kentneky. Fanatics may push on to madness in this sectional war, but the masses in our neighboring State will not be seduced into such folly and wickedness. Fremont will grow weaker every day in Indiana, the more his party expose their objects and purposes; and we balieve the State is safe to-day for Willard, as well as for Buchanan and Breckinridge, and it will be safer each encoeding week. In the mean time, the Fremont men are making stupendous with the colored race of Kentneky. Fanatics

We find this extract in our exchanges, from the ouisville Johnnal, and presume it is correct. General Gustavus Adolphus Scroggs, who has ssumed the championship of the illustrious Millard Fillmore, is engaged in a furious encounter with the no less notorious Live Oak George, who has had the temerity to call in question the genlineness of Fillmore's Americanism. Scroggs and Fillmore are the Damon and Pythias of modern times. Scropgs was Fillmore's foster father in introducing him to the sublime mysteries of the high and mighty order of Know-Nothings. Their fame and fortunes Scrogge thenceforward seemed to consider inseparably united. Hence, he throws down the glove to this puissant enemy of PRENTICE'S APOLOGY FOR HIS ABOLITIONISM—ON ACCOUNT OF BAD BAISING.

The editor of the Democrat has raked up extracts from enribiography of Mr. Clay, written and published upwards of a quarter of a century ago, when we were a citizen of New England, to show, not that we were in favor of abolishing lavery, but that we then thought slavery a very bad thing. Undoubtedly we did think thought, or seemed to think, differently. We were educated and brought up from childhood to regard slavery as an exil wherever it existed, the opposite view of the matter having never been presented to our mind. We do not imagine that, a quarter of a century ago, a man of any par y or degree could be found in New England who did not think of slavery what we said of it in the higgraphy we wrote. The subject of slavery was not a fiftent part so well understood there at that time asit is now, and it is not very well understood thereon. We ourselves, from thinking slavery under all efreumstances an evil, have come to think it an evil in ollimates where it is not required, and a good in those timent Northerners to such exerneisting tonnents as were inflicted by the eloquent tongue of chivalry on wore facilities.

But the chivalry tells Beartsly that it is responsible elsewhere. This is very significant, and calls up visions of an Invitation for pistels and coffee for two. But Beardsley, like all other Northern Locos, does not love that way of adjusting difficulties. The chivalry is perfectly aware of this fact. It knows Northern men will not shoot nor be shot. They hate cold lead. In this fact is to be found the reason why the chivalry is always so accommodating in settling these small matters that way. If the chivalry really thought there was a a chance of a fight, like its great exempler, Sir John Falstall, it would be very particular in making propositions which might end in a shivering of the body and a shaking of the hands.

What we wonder at particularly ls, the Christian matner in which the Northern men bear these eloquent ontourings of scorn and contempt. We wonder that a Northern foot cannot be found with an anstinct to gaule discif to the chicalry's continuit. If few such applications would fram the spirit from the head to the feet of the chivalry, and then, instead of talking of blood and Ihander, it seculd take to the heels and win admiration for He wonder-ful fleetness.

PRENTICE DECIDEDLY AGAINST THE FIBBIDENT VETOING THE WILMOT PROVISO.

"We have strong hope the controversy (abont Slavery) will be adjusted amicably. At any rate, no good could possibly grow out of the arrest of the Wilmot proviso by the executive veto. Whether the proviso is expedient or not, no man who understands the temper of the whole people of the North can donbt that its defeatby the interposition of the veto power of the President would result in the most terrible condition of political heatility between North and Sonth. If any President of the United States were to put lie veto npon the Wilmot proviso, the people of the non-slave-holding States, who have the supremacy of neuthers, would put the question of agitation into the next Presidental election, and then, by their strength as a sectional and geographical party, elect men who will see

In 1824-5, the Democratic and Whig parties but esparated by no question of principle, but we divided upon the question, whether General Jackson was sufficed to be elected Presi-dent of the United States. In the progress of time, during the thirty years of the cristance of the Whig party, severe important principles were presented, and the two parties became dis tinet and inte en leut of each other upon ques-tions of public policy. The O'd-Line Whigs of Pennsylvania possess the p wer to accomplish this great result; the re-sponsibility rests upon them, and I have no doubt ut that the draft which is made upon their patri tism will be promptly accepted, and that the grea tate will once more come to the res cue, and do as she has dono heretofore, put down all soutional feeling, and at the ballot box give a rote which will strike terror to the enemies of the pastitution and our glorious Union, which have long been the pride and admiration of every civil and religious liberty throughout
